MAY BE TIME SAVING DEVICE

BULLETIN.
VERA CRUZ, Nov. 21.—Everisto and Daniel Madero and other members of their party who took refuge in the American consulate last night and today were placed on board the United States battleship Rhode Island, were later transferred to the Scout Cruiser Chester which sailed at eight o'clock tonight under orders to proceed to Havana. It is probable, however, that if the Chester meets the steamer Morro Castle off Progreso, she will place the fugitives on board the Ward liner. The wives of the two Maderos left here by train tonight for Mexico City.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 21.—The bulk of the evidence at hand continues to indicate that Victoriano Huerta is unalterably determined not to accede to the demands of the United States government for his elimination as president of Mexico; but there is some basis for the belief that he may at last give in but in such a manner as to leave the impression that he acted of his own free will, defying Washington to the last.

The high handed parliamentary practice in the chamber of deputies this afternoon gave rise to considerable speculation. The roll of members was called and it was quite evident that the number necessary for a quorum was present but Col. Victor Corral, presiding in the absence of Eduardo Tamariz, the speaker who was said to be ill, looked the deputies straight in the eye and declared there was no quorum. Not a deputy protested and the chamber stood adjourned until tomorrow.

It was suggested that this action might be part of a plan to bring about the death of congress and thus split hairs with the Washington government, which through John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative had insisted that new legislative body should not come into existence.

Sparring For Time.
Under the law, should there be no quorum three times in success the house would be automatically dissolved. One Mexican, speculating upon the motive for today's adjournment, suggested that it was merely a time saving device, adding "time for Huerta today is fine spungold."

It became known today that Manuel Garza Aldape, prior to his expulsion from the cabinet, submitted for the consideration of the United States a proposition signed by President Huerta, that congress should meet merely for the transaction of three or four measures, namely ratification of the decree of October 11th, dissolving congress; declaring the elections of president and vice-president null and calling for new elections and because they might arise the question as to the legality of the new chamber and senate, calling an election for deputies and senators as well. It was understood that after these measures had been acted upon the new congress would adjourn and the nation again would await the results of elections.

For this reason it is not believed that no quorum rule will be carried out indefinitely and that it was used today merely as a matter of sparring for time.

Negotiations Rumored.
Government officials are authority for the statement that there has been an inauguration between Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires, and Mexico certain negotiations. Confirmation of this is not obtainable at the embassy and in government circles all details are refused.

That a British cruiser squadron was ordered from Barbados to Vera Cruz on representations made by Sir Lionel Carden became known here today. It was also learned that a counter-order was made as the result of an energetic communication from secretary of state Bryan to the British ambassador at Washington. Sir Lionel Carden is said to have represented to his government that conditions becoming so bad that fresh uprising would be no surprise and in event that they occurred, he doubted the ability of the American marines at Vera Cruz, even if so disposed, to afford proper protection. He then suggested sending a squadron, it is said.

Secretaries Bryan, according to the news from press reports, learned the British ambassador to understand that the United States would regard the presence of a British squadron in Mexican waters undesirable and as a result the order was changed to provide for one boat to proceed to Tampico or some other gulf port.

Federals Reported Advancing.
El Paso, Tex., Nov. 21.—Reports that federal troops from Chihuahua, advancing on the rebel command at Juarez have reached Villa Ahumada, 83 miles south of Juarez, were current among the constitutionalists today but no effort was made to send soldiers south. The rebels hardly credit the report that the federals are so near, as Villa says he still has 2,000 men along the railroad south of Juarez and that if the federals were so near, couriers would notify him.

Letter to Gov. Colquitt.
Austin, Tex. 21.—A letter signed "various true Mexicans" was received by Governor O. B. Colquitt today disparaging the telegram recently sent the governor by more than one hundred Mexicans in San Marcos, Tex. threatening the state unless leniency be shown Mexican smugglers captured at Carrizo Springs last fall.

Will Protect Americans.
Washington, Nov. 21.—Rear-Admiral Fletcher, commanding the American fleet on the east coast of Mexico late today cabled the navy department a message he had received from General Aguilar, the constitutional leader who has occupied the vicinity of Tuxpan giving assurances that American and other extensive oil interests in that territory would be protected.

Admiral Fletcher is under orders to take steps as are required to protect foreign life and property. This led to talk of the possibility of the landing of marines or bluejackets from the American battleships and deep developments in the situation have been awaited with intense interest. In reply to Admiral Fletcher's demand that no harm should come to foreigners or their property, the "I am governing on a constitutional basis, my attitude being to guarantee the interests of all foreign and domestic oil corporations existing in the territory I occupy, fulfilling in this manner the demands of civilization and not being governed by caprice or vengeance."

No Trouble Anticipated.
Officials here think this means there will be no troublesome complications as a result of Aguilar's occupation of the oil fields territory. Destruction of the oil fields would have endangered the lives of many Americans and other foreigners. Two British armored cruisers have been ordered to the scene but in the meantime the United States had been asked to guard British interests.

Frequent conferences today between Secretary Bryan, councillor John Bassett Moore and acting Secretary of State to the White House, accompanied by Mr. Roosevelt, were held in the official circles in the Mexican situation.

Concern Welfare of Maderos.
It developed that the welfare of the two Madero brothers and their relatives who had sought asylum in the American consulate at Vera Cruz was the feature of these conferences. There was a strong desire on the part of the administration to learn whether any resistance had been offered by the local Mexican authorities to the removal of the refugees aboard a battleship, and it was quite apparent that a sense of relief was experienced when it was learned that it had not been necessary to employ force. Late in the day the department received a cablegram from Admiral Fletcher announcing that Daniel Madero and five companions were received this morning on board the Louisiana as refugees. It was said at the navy department that no special instructions had been given in regard to the treatment of the refugees though the admiral had been told to confer with John Lind who last evening had been authorized by President Wilson himself to extend protection to the Maderos.

WILL MAKE GAME FIGHT.

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 21.—Coach Zupke, of the University of Illinois football players, tonight refused to predict that his men would defeat Minnesota tomorrow, but contented himself with assurances that they would fight gamely for a victory. The players today went through their last practice with lots of life in spite of the heat and are in good physical condition for the game.

A. F. OF L. REFUSES TO ADOPT RESOLUTION

Resolution Condemning Armed Intervention in Mexico Is Rejected by Federation

WAR MIGHT BE JUSTIFIABLE

Convention Thinks Intervention Might Be Justifiable But Adopts Resolution Urging Peaceful Adjustment of Conflict

ALL SPEAKERS DENOUNCE HUERTA

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 21.—The American Federation of Labor refused today to adopt a resolution condemning armed intervention in Mexico on the ground that such intervention might be justifiable and desirable. The convention unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"The American Federation of Labor condemns attempts being made by American and foreign corporations and certain jingo newspapers to force armed intervention by the United States government in Mexico and urges upon the president of the United States the continuance of a policy looking to a peaceful adjustment of the conflict among the Mexican people and the American Federation of Labor be instructed to transmit the position of the federation on that matter to the president of the United States."

John Mitchell took the floor and begged the convention not to hamper President Wilson. While he was a peace advocate, he believed there was a peace advocate that sometimes justified war within a nation and between nations.

President Gompers said the subject had taken much time of the executive council which had listened to representations of both Mexican factions and had had much correspondence on the subject.

"We are concerned in that contest," he said, "if it means displacement of an armed man like Diaz by another armed man."

Mr. Gompers recited the causes that led to the Madero revolution saying in part:

"The lands of Mexico were parceled out by President Diaz to his favorite and to American and other foreign corporations for purposes of their own private gain with additional royalties paid to Diaz. His iron rule fastened penance upon the Mexican people. Madero, although himself a rich man, embodied the best concept of the people of Mexico for the redistribution of the lands of Mexico to the people who worked upon the land. Madero was an idealist. He was given no chance. All the corporate interests were at work for his undoing."

"Interests honestly as well as dishonestly have been vested in Mexico," he said, "and these interests are protected or supposed to be protected by the countries in which the holders reside or are subjects. If we say to Germany or England: 'hands off; this is an American affair,' we must keep our own business in order. One of two alternatives confronts us. To make Mexican conditions habitable and tolerable or foreign countries will intervene to overthrow the Monroe Doctrine and cast it to the four winds."

"President Wilson has approached this subject in a statesmanlike way. We ought to strengthen his hands in trying to find a peaceful solution of the problem, but I don't think we ought to enable Huerta to say organized labor will not permit intervention and that he may go with his bloody record."

Speakers Denounce Huerta.
All the other speakers denounced Huerta and praised Madero, but some said intervention by the United States would be a good thing. The main question was brought up after the convention had adopted a strong declaration in favor of intervention as follows:

"It is not lack of love of country which causes the toilers to be exploited or killed for the promotion of private or selfish individuals."

"Sufficiently growing system of international acceptance and recognition of trade union cards is another influence that is quietly, surely creating a fraternal spirit among workers of all lands."

"Labor organizations the world over have committed themselves to the policy of international peace—peace with justice and honor in international politics, as well as in industry. With the progress of civilization the concentration of industry and commerce about great national centers and the development of world markets and commerce local arbitrary boundaries no longer determine the scope of labor protest. Two resolutions endorsing Winston Spencer-Churchill's proposal that the United States, Great Britain and Germany discontinue warship constitution for a year were adopted. One of these was introduced by President Gompers.

The fight between the marble workers and bricklayers has resulted in strikes in Milwaukee, Lexington, Ky., and elsewhere and threatens to involve the whole building trade. The executive council of the federation was instructed "to take such action as will insure the control of the setting of marble and stone on the interior of buildings to the International Association of Marble Workers."

TELLS OF A. T. & T. CO.'S MERGER ACTIVITIES

INFORMATION GIVEN REGARDING AT-TEMPT TO ABSORB INDEPENDENTS

Buffalo Man Testifying for Government Thinks Motive of American Company in Consolidation is to Eliminate Costly Competition—
No Intention of Reducing Cost to the Public.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—Further information on the activities in 1912 of the American Telephone and Telegraph company to absorb 20,000 independent concerns was given today by B. G. Hubbell of Buffalo, government witness in a hearing in connection with the prosecution of the American company for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. In the cross-examination of Mr. Hubbell, who is president of the Federal Telephone and Telegraph company, counsel sought to show that the proposed consolidation was for the purpose of saving expenses and would result in lowering the cost of service to the public. Mr. Hubbell thought the motive of the American company was to eliminate costly competition.

The witness also told of an effort by the American company to obtain control of the Stromberg-Carlson company of Rochester, N. Y., said to be the second largest manufacturer of telephone supplies in the country. Mr. Hubbell said if the negotiations had been successful the independents expected to pay more for their supplies.

Mr. Hubbell said there was no objection among the independents when Theodore N. Vail suggested for a division of territory the plan to ultimately result in consolidation. Mr. Hubbell said that while the suggestion of Mr. Vail was considered unfair and unlawful the independents went ahead with the plan because it had many good features and he thought a more fair adjustment of matters for the public might be worked out. The witness was asked if the plan had not been to offset a saving in operating the telephone system of the nation.

No Cheapening of Service.
"Partially," he said, "but back of the idea I don't think there was any particular intention of reducing the telephone cost to the public. There was no discussion of cheapening service to the public. In a word, Mr. Vail's point was that competition in some districts was too severe and he was desirous of eliminating that competition."

Questioned by Assistant Attorney General Smythe, Mr. Hubbell said he would rather see government ownership than a monopoly of the telephone business by the American company.

Mr. Hubbell said that some of the highest officials of the American company in 1907 formed a supposed independent New Jersey company and attempted to buy the Stromberg-Carlson plant for $5,000,000. Before the negotiations were completed the officers of the plant, Mr. Hubbell said, learned that the capital back of the move was "trust" money and refused to negotiate further. Mr. Hubbell said: "The general understanding among independents was that the American company, since they found it impossible to stifle competition in the regular course of competition, decided to acquire complete control of the field of manufacturing telephone outfits and then raise prices exorbitantly."

The executive council of the federation was instructed "to take such action as will insure the control of the setting of marble and stone on the interior of buildings to the International Association of Marble Workers."

DOCTOR MARSHALL DENIES ALL CHARGES

ASSERTS CHARGES ARE PART OF PLOT
TO OUST HIM FROM POSITION

Physician States He Is Not in Habit
of Using Profanity, Never Struck
a Boy With a "Squeegee" Except
For Disobedience and Had Never Threatened to Kill Any of the Inmates.

PONTIAC, Ills., Nov. 21.—Dr. James A. Marshall, former physician of the state reformatory here today took the stand and denied all the charges on which he is being tried by the civil service commission. He asserted that the charges were part of a plot to oust him from his position.

Dr. Marshall stated that he visited the screens and solitary cells regularly, was not in the habit of using "squeegee" or black jack except for disobedience and never threatened to kill any of the inmates.

The physician said he became acquainted with Florence Sullivan, who made an investigation at the reformatory for Governor Dunne in the office of Superintendent Russell. He said that Sullivan at that time complimented him on the condition of the hospital and asked him to show Dr. Benson, physician at the penitentiary at Joliet through the reformatory. Dr. Marshall said Sullivan explained that Dr. Benson wanted to get an idea of the routine and records so he could introduce the same system in the prison at Joliet.

This request was complied with, Dr. Marshall said.

The witness stated he also showed Warden Allen of Joliet through the hospital at the request of Sullivan. Dr. Marshall asserted that about this time he received information that Sullivan came to the reformatory with the object of getting rid of Superintendent Russell, that he might himself have the superintendency.

Later Dr. Marshall learned, he said, that Sullivan was trying to "get his job."

Dr. Marshall said that Sullivan accused him of beating boys and using profanity and told him he must answer to Governor Dunne.

The witness said that Sullivan's presence at the reformatory had a demoralizing effect upon the inmates and discipline was poor.

Capit. M. H. Luke, for many years assistant superintendent at the institution denounced the charges against Dr. Marshall.

The hearing will be resumed Monday in the office of the civil service commission in Chicago, when Major R. W. McLaughery, former warden at the federal prison at Leavenworth and former superintendent here will be heard. He will be the final witness.

MEMBER OF INTER-STATE COMMERCE COMMISSION DIES

John H. Marble Succumbs to Acute Attack of Indigestion in Philadelphia.

Washington, Nov. 21.—John H. Marble, a member of the inter-state commerce commission died here tonight as the result of an attack of acute indigestion by which he was stricken yesterday in Philadelphia.

Mr. Marble's death came very unexpectedly, not even the members of his family being warned of the approaching end. Mrs. Marble and their 18-year old daughter, who had been almost constantly at the bedside since yesterday, were not in the room at the time, the family physician having just been called in.

The commissioner last night returned from Philadelphia where he had been conducting the commission's investigation of Anthracite coal carrying railroads. He had been taken suddenly ill and his condition was so serious that it was decided to postpone the hearings and bring him home. He stood the trip well and apparently was much improved when he reached home. The physicians were called but there seemed to be no indications that the patient's condition was critical. Improvement continued until this evening when Mr. Marble was attacked with nauseating spells. He died at 7:30 o'clock, a few moments after the doctor arrived.

The news shocked Washington officials particularly Mr. Marble's associates on the commission.

Killed By Trucks in New York Last Year, Jos. Stewart Defends Stand.

New York, Nov. 21.—The right of the United States government to operate its mail trucks in city streets regardless of speed restrictions that may be prescribed by the board of aldermen, was defended today by Joseph Stewart, second assistant postmaster general before the Aldermanic committee appointed to consider an ordinance withdrawing the mail trucks from the class of vehicles now exempt from speed control. Fourteen persons have been killed by mail carrying automobiles in the city this year. "I shall continue to transport the mail through the streets of this city in accordance with what I consider to be my duty and the rights of the United States. The streets are post roads of the United States and they may be used by the government to transport its mails."

MISSIONARY SOCIAL UNION HOLDS SEMI-ANNUAL MEETING

Dr. Frasnée, the Speaker, Tells of Mission Work Among the Slaves—Musical Program Given and Officers Elected.

A large number were present at the Baptist church Friday afternoon to hear the Rev. W. S. Frasnée of East St. Louis speak on home missions and tell of his work as head there of the Slavonic mission. The occasion was the semi-annual meeting of the Missionary Social union, a home mission organization of the protestant churches of the city. Rev. Mr. Frasnée said that it is our duty as Americans to christianize as soon as possible the foreigner who comes to our shores. They learn our customs and our language of their own accord but need our help to learn of christianity as we understand it. He urged the importance of home missionary societies of having foreign missionary work, deprecating the custom often resorted to by home missionaries address their meetings. In referring to the three hundred converts he has made within the last six years, Rev. Mr. Frasnée said the number could as well have been three thousand had the Slavonic mission had sufficient funds.

The officers of the union for the coming year are:
President—Mrs. T. P. Carter.
First vice president—Mrs. A. T. Capps.
Second vice president—Mrs. W. R. Brittenham.
Recording secretary—Mrs. Howard D. French.
Treasurer—Mrs. A. P. Vasconcellos.

After the business meeting and election Mrs. Thomas Harbor favored the audience with a well rendered vocal solo. She was accompanied by Misses Grace and Minnie Hoffman on the violin and piano.

The meeting of the union was opened at 2:30 by a song by the congregation, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." This was followed by the devotional, led by Mrs. S. C. Coe. Miss Violet of the Woman's college then sang a solo after which the union proceeded with the business session.

BUT SEVERAL DOGS.
Chief of Police Davis and a number of the officers were on the hunt last night for a dog, which inhabited mostly in the south part of town and in the second ward, biting no less than 12 dogs. It is not known whether the canin was mad or not, but Chief Davis desires that every dog that was bit be kept up for ten days, or so that no risks will be taken, if any one wishes their dog shot the police will attend to it.

Kennedy had purchased a fast two year old colt from Bergschneider and the two men were taking the colt to Kenny's home, leading the animal from a buggy in which they were riding. As they passed a swing gate, the colt became frightened and ran against the hind wheel of the buggy, splintering every spoke. As the buggy went down both men rolled to the ground. Fortunately for them the horse they were driving was gentle, so with no less than a few bruises escaped injury.

FAST MANUAL TRAINING TEAM COMES FOR GAME.

Jacksonville High School Expects Hard Fought Battle Today With Visitors and Record Breaking Crowd Expected in Attendance. Banquet for Peoria Lads Tonight. Coach Buland Expects Victory.

A real article of high school football will be staged this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the Illinois College gridiron when the fast Peoria Manual Training eleven lines up against the Jacksonville high school. Some "bear" stories have floated down from the Distillery City, which is purported to make it easy for the team if they meet defeat today.

The real facts are that the Manual bunch will be on hand with the strongest line-up they have had against any team they have played this year and it will take some fast playing on the part of Jacksonville to put the crimp on them. The J. H. S. men have had all sorts of appellations the product of fertile sport writers but this is the first time the local lads ever knew they came under the head of "coal miners." That sounds as though Peoria expected to play in Springfield again. But whatever name is given the local eleven, every man has been working hard for the game today and if good, hard, snappy, heady playing is going to count for anything, J. H. S. will give Peoria Manuals one of the stiffest games they have had this season.

Peoria is counting on a victory from the fact that sometime past J. H. S. played Peoria high in the Distillery City and were defeated by a good healthy score. But today, it will not be the same team that lines up against Manual. There will be all the regulars in the game, every man trained to the limit and its dollars to doughnuts that from the time the referee's whistle blows there will be great doings every minute of the play. Peoria has found a new man which they expect to use

John Larson will referee the game and P. Thompson will act as headlinesman. It is expected that Peoria will bring down an umpire. The following will be the lineup: Berryman or Dickson, center; Briscoe or H. Williamson, right guard; Wood, right tackle; Wood or Whitlock, right end; Reynolds or Johnson, quarter back; Dickson, left guard; Strawn, left tackle; Hering, left end; Sutherland, left half; Haigh or Spruit, right half; Killbrow, full back.

Banquet Tonight. A banquet will be given by the young ladies of the Sophomore and Junior classes of the high school at the high school tonight at 6 o'clock in honor of the Peoria Manual training athletes and their visitors. The J. H. S. football boys will also participate. Following the banquet there will be a list of toasts. This will mean that the Peoria men will remain in the city until Sunday morning.

WOMAN ESCAPES DREADFUL OPERATION

How She Was Saved From Surgeon's Knife by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mogadore, Ohio.—"The first two years I was married I suffered so much from female troubles and bearing down pains that I could not stand on my feet long enough to do my work. The doctor said I would have to undergo an operation, but my husband wanted me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound first. I took three bottles and it made me well and strong and I avoided a dreadful operation. I now have two fine healthy children, and I cannot say too much about what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. LEE MANGES, R. F. D. 10, Mogadore, Ohio.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

MR. ALEXANDER TAKES HOPEFUL VIEW OF CATTLE MARKET

Well Known Commission Man Gives Guess For 1914 Outlook—Believes Argentine Shipments Will Interfere Only With Cheaper Grades.

The seventh annual fall meeting of the Indiana Cattle Feeders Association was held in Lafayette, Ind., yesterday. One of the principal addresses was made by John T. Alexander of Chicago who gave his opinion of the "Market Outlook" basing his views on long experience. Mr. Alexander said:

"I believe I am expected to say something to you on market conditions, past present and future. This year has been one of great disappointments from the first of the year up to the present time. Last year's exceedingly high prices for the bulk of the cattle especially the good heavy cattle, led cattle feeders to expect exceedingly high prices again this year, and corn being so much lower last fall and early winter than the previous year they fed everything they could get hold of, which resulted in a more liberal supply of corn-fed cattle than during 1912, with the percentage of big heavy cattle exceptionally large, and as the demand only calls for so many heavy cattle each week and each month throughout the year, the supply this season has been in excess of the demand. Yearlings on the baby beef order have been in good demand and have generally shown a fair profit, but the bulk of the choice heavy long-fed cattle show very little margin to the feeder.

Guessing on 1914. "Now as to the outlook for next year, I must say there is a whole lot of guess work about it, and it would take a much smarter man than I am to give you much information on the subject, but I will give it to you as the situation looks to me. No one can tell just how much effect free beef from the Argentine will have on our markets. It will undoubtedly effect them to some extent, but I should think it would be the cheaper grades of killing and dressed beef cattle and not our good choice corn-fed cattle nor our good yearlings on the baby beef order, as these go to supply the high class trade in this country, and I don't think they will take kindly to frozen or chilled beef from Argentina.

"As to the supply of cattle to be fed this winter, present indications seem to point to a fairly liberal supply to be marketed between now and the first of the year owing to high corn and feed, hog cholera which I don't think ever was worse is as bad taking the whole country over, and the fear of bad weather, but I am of the opinion we will get a light supply of corn-fed cattle during the late winter months and an exceedingly light supply during the spring and early summer months.

In Western States. "Kansas and Nebraska will be out of the feeding business during the late winter and spring and summer months. Iowa, the great feeding state, will fall away short of a normal supply as their corn crop is spotted, and where their corn is good the hog cholera is so bad and feeders so high they will not feed anything like the usual number. Illinois will fall away short of cattle for the late winter and spring months also Missouri, and I don't think Indiana will feed as many. Some parts of the state may feed more but I don't think the state over you will feed as many as last year.

Such difference of opinion as to what free trade results, immediate and future, will be, but we can not overlook the fact that considerable quantities of Argentine and Australian frozen and chilled beef will be imported and that it will compete actively with the product of our western and cheap native steers and butcher cattle can not be disputed. We have been furnishing the mining regions of the east with considerable quantities of beef and to retain this trade it will be necessary to compete with the imported article.

Quality Is Alternative. "The logical alternative is for the American grower to turn his attention to quality. American consumers will not use chilled or frozen beef if they can get access to the superior domestic article at reasonable cost, and the man who sends cattle of good quality to market will have less reason to be concerned about Argentine competition than the vendor of common stuff. It is a time to consider quality and in my opinion the spread between common and good cattle will be materially widened as a result of new conditions.

"As to prices, it will depend on the demand, and the demand will depend on the industrial situation and business in general of this great country, and I am very hopeful that the business of this great country of ours will be in at least a normal and satisfactory condition."

"RICHEST WOMAN" IS 78.

New York, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Hetty Green, whose wealth is so vast as to make a "twenty-million-dollar widow" appear as a mere "piker" reached her seventy-eighth anniversary today, but she did not observe the occasion. All week days look alike to Mrs. Green. Apparently she saw no reason why she should vary her usual routine of business just because it happened to be the anniversary of her natal day. She alike several calls in the financial district and put in considerable time at her offices at 111 Broadway. Ever since she reached her seventieth year it has been rumored at intervals that "the world's richest woman" intended to retire and turn over the management of her colossal business and financial interests to her only son, Col. E. H. R. Green. The rumor appeared about to be verified a year or two ago when "Ned" Green quit Texas and came to New York to live. He has made his home here ever since, but if his mother turned her affairs over to him nobody knows it.

UNSEASONABLE WEATHER HAMPERS RETAIL TRADE

TRADE CONDITIONS ARE REFLECTED IN THE LIGHT DEMAND FOR MONEY.

Activity In Holiday Trade Tends To Close Up Some of the Gaps Caused By Mild Weather—Farmers Appear To Be Prosperous and Country Banks Report Heavy Demand For Loans.

New York, Nov. 21.—Dun's Review tomorrow will say: Trade conditions are reflected in the unseasonably light demand for money, especially in the east; in the south and west there is a little more inquiry. The recession in iron and steel is more pronounced than in previous weeks. Curtailment of operations in that industry has increased and working forces are considerably reduced, with buyers showing a disposition to hold off for still lower prices.

Current demands from the railroads are disappointing and the falling off in consumption has also extended to less important lines while there has been no check to the declining tendency in quotations. In copper the situation continues one of extreme dullness and substantial concessions are offered from the values previously prevailing.

Brady's Review.

New York, Nov. 21.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: Mixed characteristics are presented in the week's trade news, thus, unseasonably mild weather has hampered retail trade over a wide area, conservatism as regards future buying is in evidence the iron and steel traders continue to reflect a slowing down movement, money for some time accommodation is rather tight and collections seem to be harder to make. On the other hand, activity in holiday trade has tended to close up some of the gaps caused by mild weather, winter wheat is in fine shape on a record area, railway traffic is being conducted with relative ease, farmers appear to be prosperous and country banks report a rather heavy demand for loans.

Business failures for the week were 349 which compares with 269 in 1912.

BANK CLEARINGS.

New York, Nov. 21.—Bradstreet's bank clearings report for the week ending Nov. 20th, shows an aggregate of $3,361,206,000 as against $3,419,667,000 last week and $3,793,676,000 in the corresponding week last year. Their day will be spent in the highland capital of the Costa Rican republic.

IMPORTANT RECLAMATION CONFERENCE. Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 21.—A reorganization of the Upper Missouri River Improvement Association, so that in future its work may be conducted on broader lines than in the past, is the object of an important conference which began here today and will continue over tomorrow. Heretofore the chief aim of the association has been to secure the improvement of the upper Missouri river for navigation purposes. It is now proposed to direct the efforts of the organization towards reclamation projects that will benefit the entire country tributary to the upper Missouri while at the same time affording the desired flood protection.

W. C. T. U. IN RELIEF WORK. The W. C. T. U. held a very interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. Sarah Cocking recently. An hour of evangelistic service was followed by a report of the work done during the past month. There has been distributed among the poor five and one-half dollars in money, potatoes, bread, pies, jelly and other eatables, one suit of clothes, one dress, one pair of shoes, three dresses made for a little girl and other articles given. Eight visits were made and two cottage prayer meetings held.

QUICK RELIEF FOR RHEUMATISM. George W. Koon, Lawton, Mich., says: "Dr. Detchon's Relief for Rheumatism has given my wife wonderful benefit for rheumatism. She could not lift hand or foot, had to be lifted for two months. She began the use of the remedy and improved rapidly. On Monday she could not move and on Wednesday she got up, dressed herself and walked out for breakfast." Sold by L. P. Alcott, druggist.—Adv.

A PLEASURE TO GIVE.

It is always a pleasure for a right minded person to give when at all possible and the cause is worthy. Such persons will have an opportunity Tuesday to send or take something to Passavant hospital.

This institution is just as much to Morgan county as a whole as Jacksonville and it should be the pleasure of all in the county and adjacent counties to bring in donations of vegetables or any kind of farm produce that could be used in a family. A cheerful giver is commended by the Great Giver Himself and so it should be the pleasure of many to remember Passavant hospital Tuesday.

Call at the hospital and see its workings and become better acquainted.

SOME OFF-SIDE CRUTES.

If Michigan ever grants the women of that state the voting franchise Ad Wolgast will never get anywhere if he attempts to enter the political life of the Wolverine commonwealth. The former lightweight champion has notified the boxing promoters that "no woman will ever see a boxing match in which I am a participant." The declaration was made by Wolgast when he was informed that in the future Milwaukee promoters would admit women to all contests. The wildest is quite forgetful in some of his statements, particularly one, that he has never boxed when women were present and that he is not going to start now. In his go with Nelson when he won the championship a few years ago the ringside was dotted with members of the fair sex, and Ad was dotted with bonbons and lionized by many of them when he put away the durable Dane.

Notwithstanding a committee of international regulators ten days ago "wrote" Jack Johnson out of the boxing game, the big spade is moving with swiftness in Paris and is gathering up all of the loose easy change in sight. Not only is he making money giving boxing exhibitions before vaudeville audiences, but he has two French clubs fighting for the privilege of staging during the second week in January his go with Frank Moran for the heavyweight championship. Jack is nearly "broke" in a financial way, and he hopes to recoup quite a wad when he crabs the ambitious Moran.

Although Tommy Murphy is nothing more than a third-rater, the Harlem boy has forced Willie Ritchie to grant him better terms than any other boxer has been able to negotiate since the Californian has been champion. Murphy was about to call off their match for December 10 because Ritchie started to quibble about the weight, when the latter's manager and the promoters at San Francisco got busy and compelled him to deposit a water-tight forfeit guaranteeing 135 pounds one hour before entering the ring. McFarland has met Murphy upon several occasions at various weights, from 133 to 137 pounds, and has boxed rings around him at every meeting, yet Ritchie cannot be brought within Maxim gun range of the pride of the stock yards when a match between them is agitated. The international boxing regulators while they have the business of sidetracking bunco champions in hand can do nothing better than thoroughly investigate the present status of the lightweight title. That crown at the present time is nothing more than a cheap pawn—one that is bartered for where the cushions are soft and the conditions satisfactory only to its possessor.

Those Oxford (Eng.) resolutions have raised a storm in London which is now running second only to Lillian Pankhurst's militants. The Rhodes students have entered a vigorous protest, and they are being ably assisted by the London Mail and the Sportsman. The faculty is backing down, and only a few days will elapse, it is predicted, until the resolutions will be recalled.

In future all baseball players eligible in post-series games will share the plunder alike. This is the ruling handed down by the national commission in deciding an appeal from Vaughn, Moore and Stack, who were allotted but one-half a share each of the divide in the recent White Sox-Cubs city champion series. The investigation of the appeal uncovered a large volume of nasty piggishness upon the part of the Cub regulars, and the commission playing no favorites in exposing the hogs.

Johnny Coulon, bantam champion, has returned to his home in Chicago after a four months' trip "roughing it" in the Canadian woods in an endeavor to recover his health. In boxing togs he weighs 118 pounds, the heaviest he has ever been since becoming a boxer. He will at once start light training, but he will not engage in any championship contests until after the first of the year, so as to make certain that his rheumatic troubles have disappeared.

Speculators who have managed to get hold of a few (and only a few) tickets for the Yale-Harvard football game today are holding them for $100 a pair. The seats the scalpers have are the very best at the Stadium, and the promoters predict that the sure-thing gentry will be left to hold the bag, because the public is signaling for and taking the cheaper block of seats. Harvard remains favorite in the betting market at $10 to $8.

"Kid" Alberts proved himself to be only a fair trial horse for Packey McFarland in their Waterbury, Conn., go Friday night. McFarland had several other engagements during the forthcoming six weeks, and the Waterbury affair was in the nature of a work-out for him.

Wilbert Robinson is attempting to deceive himself (and the public) with the notion that he is going to make that aggregation of Brooklyn Trolley Dodgers pennant contenders in 1914. He is going to take his first terms, or "rookies," south about the middle of February for a strenuous training season, and already he dreams of several Rube Marquards and Tesareus in the bunch.

TO WIND-UP CENTRAL STATES CHAMPIONSHIP

CHICAGO - WISCONSIN GAMING LEADING CONTEST IN CENTRAL WEST.

Maroons Must Win From Badgers In Order to Have Honors Unchallenged—Minnesota Must Defeat the Illinois to Maintain Her Place—Harvard-Yale Scrap Big Event in the East.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Four big games will wind up the football championship game campaign in the Central States tomorrow. Leading in the race for the western conference title, Chicago must defeat Wisconsin to have her honors unchallenged, for should Wisconsin win she will claim an equal standing with the Maroons and Minnesota in the race.

Minnesota at the time to maintain her place next to Chicago must win from Illinois. Nebraska's claim to the Missouri Valley championship depends on the outcome of the Kansas-Missouri game. Should Kansas defeat Missouri, Nebraska by her victory over the Jayhawkers, will be entitled to pre-eminence, but if Missouri wins her right to the title will equal the Nebraska claim. Meanwhile Nebraska has a battle on her hands that will go to show, in a measure, the relation strength of the conference and the Missouri Valley teams. A number of games of less general consequence, but of first importance in their several spheres, are included in the day's program. The annual game between Ames and Drake is of more than ordinary note in Iowa; Purdue and Indiana fight their yearly battle which on past performances should result in a rather easy win for the Boilermakers and Lake Forest and Beloit meet to settle the championship of the "Little Five."

Notre Dame takes on the Christian Brothers' eleven in a contest which should furnish the Hoosier with practice for their game with Texas Thanksgiving day.

Iowa Meets Nebraska. Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 21.—Eighteen strong, the members of the Iowa football squad led by Coach Hawley, arrived here today for their game tomorrow with the University of Nebraska eleven. Coach Hawley declared his men were in good condition despite the long journey from Iowa City. He declared that the men were prepared for one of the hardest battles of the season but that there was a general belief that the Iowans would be returned victors. Following their arrival the Hawkeye team was taken to the golf links of the Lincoln Country Club where a stiff signal practice was held and the players then returned to their hotel to rest for the remainder of the day.

Big Event At Cambridge. New York, Nov. 21.—The Harvard stadium is the mecca toward which faithful football followers in the east will turn tomorrow to see Harvard and Yale in the climax of the gridiron season there is the same undergraduate interest and rivalry in the Wesleyan-Trinity, Syracuse-Carlisle, Lehigh-LaFayette, Stevens-Rutgers, Army-Springfield and Navy-New York, University games, but the fame and tradition of the gridiron classic at Cambridge, overshadow all other contests of the day. In place of the early season hope of holding Harvard to a low score victory, Yale now believes that their team has an excellent chance of defeating the Cambridge combination. Both teams have made marked progress toward perfect playing since their early contests and the game tomorrow is expected to show some extra-ordinarily good work. There appears to be no particular advantage in physical condition for either team.

Yale is likely to attempt to upset the Harvard combination by savage attacks and tackling at the very outset of the game.

If the Crimson can maintain its composure and deliberate machine-like play during these early onslaughts one crisis in the contest will have been safely passed, for Yale has great respect for the slow but sure methods that have proved irresistible in all games this season with the one exception of the Princeton contest, where slippery footing nullified much of the strength claimed for this system.

Aside from the Harvard-Yale game, the chief interest of eastern football enthusiasts will be centered in the showing of the army and navy teams which meet one week from tomorrow.

Of the two eleven cadets have decidedly the harder opponents since the Springfield Y. M. C. A. Training School, which visits West Point is far more dangerous than the New York University aggregation which meets the Middies at Annapolis.

Great Excitement Prevails. Boston, Nov. 21.—Not in years has this state and destined New England city shown the stress of excitement that prevails on the eve of the thirty-fourth game between the football elevens of Harvard and Yale universities.

Hotels and theaters report conditions that resemble boom days of a western mining town. Rooms at the leading hotels have been unavailable for several weeks and hallways and lounging quarters are tonight blocked with coats to care for the overflow. The blue of Yale and the crimson of Harvard decorate every available point of vantage in and about the hub.

Ticket speculators are receiving from thirty-five to fifty dollars for a pair of seats in their possession and everyone of the 47,000 persons who expect to witness the game, appears to be anxious to wager "Just a trifles" on the outcome. Odds range from 4 to 7 to 2 to 1 on Harvard with a preponderance of Crimson currency in sight.

WIRELESS TELEPHONIC COMMUNICATION TRANSMITTED

German Wireless Company Sends Message Over Distance of Nearly 4,000 Miles.

Berlin, Nov. 21.—The transmission of a wireless telephonic communication over a distance of nearly 4,000 miles, from Nuestrada-Am-Ruebenberge, Hanover, to New Jersey, was accomplished on October 27th, by a German wireless company. A report of the feat was submitted today by Admiral George August Emsmann to the German shipbuilding society.

The message was sent and received in the middle of the afternoon although the daytime is considered unfavorable for wireless communication. Each of the stations is over 800 feet high.

Emperor William and Prince Henry of Prussia have taken a great personal interest in the experiment.

Men Welcome Mother's Friend

A Duty that Every Man Owes to Those who Perpetuate the Race.

It is just as important that men should know of progressive methods in advance of motherhood. The suffering, pain and distress incident to child-bearing can be easily avoided by having at hand a bottle of Mother's Friend.

This is a wonderful, penetrating, external application that relieves all tension
upon the muscles and enables them to expand
without the painful strain upon the ligaments. Thus there is avoided all those terrible spells; the tendency to nausea or morning sickness is counteracted, and a bright,
sunny, happy disposition is preserved that reflects wonderfully upon the character and temperament of the little one soon to open its eyes in bewilderment at the joy of his arrival. You can obtain a bottle of "Mother's Friend" at any drug store at $1.00, and it will be the best dollar's worth
you ever obtained. It preserves the mother's health, enables her to make a quick and complete recovery, and thus with renewed strength she will eagerly devote herself to the care and attention which mean so much to the welfare of the child.
Write to the Bradfield Regulator Co., 129
Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their valuable and instructive book of guidance for expectant mothers. Get a bottle of Mother's Friend today.

There is a wealth of instruction and comfort to be derived in reading this little book. It is plainly written, just what every woman wants to know, and will be a splendid little textbook for guidance, not only for yourself, but will make you helpful to others. And, in the meantime, do not fail to get a bottle of Mother's Friend
at the drug store, and thus fortify yourself
against any and all pains and discomfort.

HARRIGANBROS

POINTS TO WAYS FOR BETTERING THE FARMS

DR. W. E. TAYLOR OFFERED VAL-UABLE SUGGESTIONS TO MOR-GAN COUNTY FARMERS.

Made Strong Plea for Joint Stock and Grain Farming—Wisconsin Presents Unanswerable Arguments in Favor of Dairying as Land and Wealth Builder—Farming Now
Really a Learned Profession.

Dr. W. E. Taylor of Moline, director of the soil culture department
of Deere & Company made an address Friday afternoon at the Y.
M. C. A., building which was heard by a goodly company of Morgan
county farmers and farm owners. Dr.
Taylor appeared in Jacksonville under the auspices of the local Implement Dealers association. He was introduced by Frank J. Heintz, chairman of the rural affairs department
of the Chamber of Commerce and his address on "Better and Bigger Crops" was of the practical kind pointing out as it did some of the dangers which threaten farm interests and the possibilities which come from proper soil management.

Manages Many Farms.
Dr. Taylor has for four years been engaged in his present work. He has charge of 23 or 24 farms owned by the Deere Company and the Deere interests. Five of these farms are located near Moline and the others in a dozen different states. There is one in Louisiana, another in California, still another in Montana,
several in Minnesota and one in C.
Dakota. The locations mentioned will give some idea of the scope of Dr.
Taylor's work. Most of these farms are managed for demonstration purposes to show what can be done with different kinds of soil and under varying conditions. One of the tracts near Moline is an experimental farm operated in connection particularly with the factory end of the Deere business. That is, on this farm various crops are planted simply to show what can be done with different kinds of implements manufactured by Deere & Co. For example one parcel of ground is devoted to the culture of peanuts; another
to sugar beets and a score of major crops are raised on this particular farm.

On one of the farms near Moline
a herd of 150 Guernsey cows is maintained and Dr. Taylor said in conversation yesterday that this herd
while it is kept mainly for demonstrating purposes, makes money for the owners. Dr. Taylor is not simply the director of this farm as he has an interest in it as well as in some of the other enterprises. He is an advocate of the dairy cow as a farm adjunct and believes that dairying is a very profitable business of its self besides providing the best kind of fertilizer for maintaining the soil.

Built Up Hospital Fund.
For a number of years prior to beginning his present work, Dr. Taylor was superintendent of the Watertown hospital for the Insane, and made a wonderful record there not only in the administration of the hospital but also of the farm interests of the institution. The state owned at Watertown quite an extensive farm, but the land is of poor quality and boggy. Although he had paid some attention to agriculture
before he became superintendent at Watertown it was there that his work attracted particular attention
as he took land which had been bearing little or nothing and within three years time brought it up to a high state of fertility.

Some suggestions from Dr. Taylor's address yesterday are given
hereafter:

Language of the Soil.
"I come to you not so much as an expert but rather as a farmer with actual experience for I am sure that I know something of the art of farming if not the science. The time has come when we must learn how to secure enough from the soil to pay
the interest on our investment and at the same time not to rob the land. It is a reflection upon us as farmers that we hear so much today
about the advice of experts and of what farmers must do to improve conditions. The fact is that comparatively few people understand the science of the soil. The soil has a mute language all its own just as the flowers have and we must study
that language if we are to come to a thorough understanding of conditions. I am sorry that we do not find in every school that the science
of the soil is being taught to our children and that time must come.
Over in France where the soil is comparatively poor, 45,000 experiment stations were established by requiring a station at every little country school and today as a result France is producing more per acre
than any other country. We need too, aside from education in the public schools, teachers who can go
about from farm to farm teaching the farmers just what is needed. The time was when farming was simply suitable, or so accounted, for the ignorant and the strong, but today farming has become one of the greatest of the learned professions. A commercial artery starts at every farm.

Two Good Features.
There are certain general features
of farming which are good and essential here and everywhere. Those features are stock raising and crop
raising and the farmers cannot neglect either without living to feel sorrow for that neglect. The high cost of living is largely due to the increasing costs of meat and dairy products and yet statistics show us
that notwithstanding an increasing population that last year showed the following decreases in production of live stock: cattle, 1,512,000; sheep,
$88,000; hogs, 4,565,000; cows, 202,
000. It is a fact that within the last 30 days 30,000,000 lbs. of chilled

beef was imported into this country, yet on the 4th day of this month
the price of beef was as high as ever known.

Farmer the Dynamic Force.
The success of agriculture depends upon the proper combination of the elements in the soil and the elements
in the air and the farmer is the dynamic force which must bring these elements together. God puts things upon this earth in the crude form and it remains for man to refine and improve them. The great requirement for the continued fertility
of the soil is humus or organic matter. I took some land a few years ago that was so run down that it would hardly raise rye. I applied manure for one year, then raised
cow peas and the third year it produced fifty bushels of corn to the acre. While we can return eighty per cent of the fertility taken from the soil by the use of manure, you may argue that eventually we must wear out these soils. Do not, however, overlook in these calculations
the fact that of the ingredients in your crops 97 1/2 per cent come from the air and 2 1/2 per cent from the soil. Carbon dioxide is the biggest factor in the growth of plants and they breathe it in through their leaves or by other means in countless ways.

Four Steps in Farming.
There are four important steps or factors in successful crop production
which cannot be overlooked: the seedbed, fertility, seed and cultivation. The seed bed must be roomy, that is deep and well ventilated. It must be deep in order to get into the subsoil for there is where the water must be drawn. It takes 700
tons of water for every acre of corn.
Then there must be humus. The trouble with our land hereabouts is that there has been too much concentration, too much corn.

"I once experimented with seed
corn hung where the temperature was uniform and other which was exposed to wind and weather and the seed which had been cared for in the right way produced almost twice as much as the other. In feeding it is the right combination of elements which gets the gain. Four steers gained 260 pounds in 104 days
fed on corn and expensive timothy hay, while others fed on corn and cow pea hay, the latter cheaper than timothy made a gain in the same period of 624 pounds. It is the balanced ration which counts in feeding
stock.

"Alfalfa can be of immense benefit to farmers if they will study
its needs and raise it. I have fields which this past season produced six tons to the acre in three cuttings and still another could have been taken off. By experimental work I have proved to my own satisfaction that alfalfa cannot flourish with weeds;
it will not grow on sour land; needs
manure and the soil must be thoroughly inoculated. After you have raised alfalfa on a field for four years
turn it under and plant corn and the crop will astound you. Forty acres of land handled in this way yielded me an average of 137 1/2 bushels per acre.

The Value of Dairying.
"Keep a few dairy cows on the farm if you would surely maintain the fertility of the soil and build up your farm profits. Look at Wisconsin, now about the richest state in the union. Years ago it was regarded as a poor state but when attention was turned to dairying conditions changed and today Wisconsin has an annual production of $100,000,000 worth of dairy products. In the county of Jefferson alone there are 40,000 cows and the farmers have in the banks of that county $2,000,000 in savings departments. The silo is a big factor there and can be here. The silo on the farm is for the preservation of corn in its succulent, juicy state
when it has the highest food value,
and is rich in carbo-hydrates. The silo is to corn just what the mason
jar is to fruit which the housewife
"puts up." Plant cow peas along your corn rows after the last cultivation has been done. The vines will climb the stalks and when the corn is cut for silage, the pea vines
will greatly add to the food value
of the ensilage. Let us remember that to maintain the soil is a duty
we owe to posterity. The soil is ours
in trust and we have no right to rob it of fertility."

The Hyomei treatment that has effectively benefited many thousands
of sufferers from catarrh, bronchitis,
husky voice, coughs and cold in the head is easy and pleasant to use.
Just pour a few drops in the inhaler
and breathe it in—no stomach dos-

eyes, or any other symptoms of catarrh—use Hyomei.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including inhaler and bottle of liquid,
costs only $1.00, and an extra bottle
of liquid, if afterwards needed, is but 50 cents. You money returned if not benefited.—Adv.

"WAR PLANS" OF ARMY FINISHED

Uncle Sam Ready to Equip and Arm 500,000 Men.

AT A MOMENT'S NOTICE.

For the First Time in History Government is Prepared for Clash With
First Class Power—Plans Worked
Out by Colonel J. T. Thompson of Army Ordnance Department.

The "war plans" of the army ordnance department are completed, and for the first time in the history of the country, it is declared, Uncle Sam is in readiness, at a moment's notice, to arm and equip 500,000 men to send into the field in the event of war with a first class power. These plans have been worked out during the past six years through the systematic and unremitting labor of Lieutenant Colonel J. T. Thompson of the ordnance department, under the direction of Brigadier General William Crozier, chief of the bureau.

Colonel Thompson pointed out that his "war plan" is based upon conditions as they would actually exist in the event of hostilities. The line of the regular army would be increased to its maximum enlisted strength, as provided for by law; the entire organized militia of the country would be mustered into service of the United States at full war strength, and the remainder by the enlistment of volunteers.

Concentration Camps Provided.
The "war plan" as now completed
provides that this force shall be armed
and equipped at concentration camps
before the different units are sent to the scenes of operation.

For co-ordination tables and maps
have been prepared, giving for the
mobile army and the organized militia,
for each arm of the service, their present strength and the number of troops
required to bring each arm to war strength as well as the number and
kind of volunteers to be raised to complete a half million of troops.

The various increases needed in each branch of the service are shown on a map which is divided into five ordnance supply sections corresponding
as follows: Sections Nos. 1 and 2, eastern department of the army; section 3,
southern department; section 4, central department; section 5, western department. The number of sets of equipment of the different kinds required can thus be very closely approximated. The exact number of arms and equipment of every kind to be held on hand at the supply arsenals
throughout the country is then determined.

System of Supply Depots.

The department also has worked out
a system of division field supply depots. Each depot has the necessary personnel, tools, ordnance stores and supplies estimated as sufficient for maintaining for six months a complete
division of infantry or cavalry or auxiliary army troops. These division depots are so arranged that several
can be readily combined into a field
army depot.

The system includes telegrams, letters and various orders, which would need only to be dated and signed, in the office of the chief of ordnance in order to set the machinery of equipment in operation. The general staff of the army deems the new "war
plan" as applied to ordnance so valuable in the expeditious placing of properly equipped troops in the field at short notice that it has directed other departments, such as engineers, quartermaster corps, medical department
and signal corps, to prepare similar systems.

OPERATED ON FOR CRIME.

Michigan Judge Believes That Two Moral Delinquents Are Cured.

Two prisoners who had been sent from Benton Harbor, Mich., to Chicago by Circuit Court Judge Bridgeman
to undergo operations by Dr. E. H.
Pratt of Evanston, Ill., for the cure
of moral delinquency returned a few days ago and faced the court.

"I am a man now," said George Corbett, one of the men. He stood erect.
Before the operation his shoulders sagged. His eyes were clear, and he had the appearance of one who is sound
morally and physically.

Clarence Chappell, the other man,
had pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary and was known as the leader
of a gang of toughs.

"I believe I am cured," he said. "I want to lead a decent life."

Judge Bridgeman announced that the two men would be pardoned and their actions carefully watched.

"I believe they have been morally regenerated," said the judge, "and if they prove the correctness of my theory more prisoners will be sent to the operating table instead of to prison."

Capital Ends Secret Divorces.

There will not be any more secret

of the District of Columbia, according to recent advices from Washington.

According to new rules that go into effect next month, all divorce cases
and amendments of marriage will be heard in open court.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES

Official announcement has been made of the candidacy of Carl Vrooman of Bloomington for the democratic nomination for United States senator. Mr. Vrooman has been a tentative candidate for the senatorship for several months, and it was generally understood that an official declaration of his candidacy would be forthcoming at an early date. Mr.
Vrooman will have decided opposition to his ambition in the person of State Senator W. Duff Piercy or Mt. Vernon, who practically declared himself a candidate for United States senator during the round-up
of state fair week.

Agricultural News Valuable To Farmers

POSSIBLE IMPROVEMENTS IN HOMES ON FARMS

MORE CONVENIENCES CAN BE SECURED BY PROPER PLANNING.

New Style of Architecture Is Desirable To Better Conditions—Sanitation, Labor Saving Machinery and Ornamental Planting Are Considered—Disposing of Wastes.

(By Eugene Davenport, Dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois).

Fortunately we have reached the time when it is generally believed that a considerable improvement in the conditions of farm homes is both desirable and possible. We have passed the pioneer stage in our development of American agriculture and country life, and the time is here when we can settle down to a real study of our living conditions with the hope of effecting something like a permanent settlement of the questions connected with country life.

It is extremely important that in moving in this direction those things should be attempted first which are most easily possible, both for financial and other considerations. Hoping it may be helpful in this direction, the University of Illinois is arranging for a series of articles bearing upon definite points at which the present state of knowledge is sufficient to suggest improvement.

New Type of Architecture.

In general, we need a new type of home architecture, better adapted to country conditions than are the types that have been universal ly employed and that have come with more or less modification from the towns. The country house should be relatively low and large, and arranged with reference to conducting the labor of the home with the least possible outlay of energy, both in travel and in heavy work. All labor matters should be considered at this time by everyone who contemplates building on the farm and some of the newer designs that may now be had should be carefully studied by prospective builders before deciding on the final plans.

However, relatively few houses are erected in any one generation, and the principal improvements that can now be made in country living will be independent of absolutely new construction. Moreover, we want to attack first those which can be accomplished with the least outlay of funds, and it will be the purpose of this series of articles to suggest such lines of improvement.

In general, these lines may be roughly sketched under three principal headings: sanitation, labor saving machinery, and ornamental planting.

Disposing of Waste.

Wherever people establish a permanent residence, there all questions of cleanliness are doubled, both in difficulty and in importance. Fortunately these matters are not so pressing in the country as in the city, and yet the city is nearer the solution of some of the questions than is the country. This is only because the city has been forced into meeting certain of these exigencies, though it has neglected others most scandalously.

The disposal of the waste at the home is such a way as shall not endanger the health is an almost impossible problem in the city. In the country it is easily managed—so easily that in the past it has been ignored to a degree that has left typhoid fever and other infectious diseases more prevalent in the country than in the city. The time has come when something must be done on this point, and proper sanitary sewage disposal on the farm is one of the first questions that must be considered in improving the conditions of country life. Fortunately, the problem is easily and cheaply solved. The cost of a top buggy is in general sufficient to supply the country home with sanitary sewage disposal equal to that of the best city residences.

By labor saving machinery is meant the outfitting of the home for doing the heavy work, especially of cleaning, with machinery that is competent to do the work and that compares somewhat favorably with that which is used on the farm outside. This machinery is not simply labor saving; it is necessary to the conduct of the business. Originally the reaper was intended as a labor saving machine, but it became a necessity for without it the harvesting of the American wheat crop would be impossible to secure the labor necessary to harvest the American wheat crop by the old-time methods and wheat production on the present scale is possible only with modern harvesting machinery.

So it is with the labor of the farm home. We have reached the time when this labor has become excessive, and the installation of proper machinery for doing the heaviest portions is not simply a favor to the women of the household; it has become an economic and social necessity in order that the American farm women can discharge in safety to their health and in comfort to their every day life, the obligations that are now resting upon them.

Without a doubt the proper distribution of ornamental planting could do more to beautify country life than would any other means at our disposal, certainly with anything like a similar outlay of money. It is the most difficult of all the improvements to effect, largely because we are without proper ideals of procedure and are obsessed with the conviction that anything to be beautiful must be bought of an agent and grown in a nursery some distance away.

When it is possible for country people to acquire really practical methods of using native material, that which is certainly hardy, in moderate amounts but in sufficient quantities to really produce an effect, we can revolutionize the atmosphere of the country homes, even the plainest of them. What is needed is not here and there a solitary tree or a bush fighting for life among the grass and weeds, but masses of planting which make a background and a setting for the house; in which case may the house be ever so plain, the picture as a whole will give the feeling of home. Attention to some of these minor matters that lie close at hand in making use of modern information will do much for the improvement of country life. Indeed, enough is known already which is within the financial reach of most farmers to put American country home life on a plane almost unattainable by people of the city, and entirely so except by the outlay of sufficient funds to maintain more than one established residence.

Day of Foot Paths Coming.
In accomplishing this purpose it is important to bear in mind that the conditions in the country and those in the city are different and that we are not to solve our problem by the simple imitation of city improvement. While we need roads as badly as do the people of the city, we do not need sidewalks as they do; and yet the time will come when every improved highway will have its footpath by the side. We do not need public parks, because the country is one great park. We do not need city houses in the sense that city people need them—although we do need social centers, and they are bound to develop about our churches and schools.

The problem of country living is its own problem, quite distinct from that of any other form of modern life. It must be studied from its own standpoint, solved with its own material. It is hoped this series of articles will be helpful to not a few who may be endeavoring to move in this direction.

HEREDITY PRESENTS IMPORTANT QUESTIONS IN CATTLE RAISING

Experimentation Is Sometimes Necessary To Secure Results—Vendel's Theories Have Given Most Satisfactory Results and Interpretation.

(Extract from a paper read by Dr. J. A. Detlefsen, Assistant Professor of Genetics, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.)

A few years ago a well known agricultural college used as a sire in a dairy herd a bull to which no particular merit was attached. Subsequently this bull was sold. When the milk production of his daughters was investigated, it was found that they were uniformly of a superior type, and so every effort was made to locate this sire. The search was fruitless, however, for no one had judged from his appearance that he transmitted the qualities which would make him very desirable, to say the least. He may have been relegated eventually to some outlying district where his good points were not fully appreciated; or he may have been used for bologna sausage and fertilizer.

It frequently happens that we wish to repeat a profitable experience or avoid an unprofitable one. This is one reason justifying scientific experiments and when we learn that a given set of conditions always leads to a definite predictable result, we say it takes place according to a law. To be concrete, let us suppose we wished to duplicate the prepotent or dominant qualities of the valuable bull mentioned after it was found that this particular individual was lost. He had evidently transmitted these to his daughters. By what sort of matings could we recover in a grandson the identical characters? We may as well admit at the outset that we do not positively know. A widespread impression exists among breeders that the sire influences the quantity and quality of milk to a marked degree, possibly more than the dam. If by experimentation such were found to be true and to act according to a law, it would not be altogether surprising, for many cases are known in which a sire may transmit a character to all his offspring, but the dam transmits it only to her sons. High winter egg production in Barred Plymouth Rocks appears to be transmitted in this manner, according to the law of Mendel.

SWEET CLOVER IS VALUABLE CROP

OPINION HOWEVER VARIES AS TO ITS REAL MERIT.

Is One of the Greatest of Nitrogen Gatherers and Grows With Special Luxuriance—Is Great as Seed Producer and in Resisting Drouths—Some University Records.

(By J. G. Mosier, Professor of Soil Physics, University of Illinois).

Must have been said in the last two or three years about sweet clover. A great many condemn it as one of our worst weeds, while occasionally a voice is raised in its defense. But whatever may be said against it, the following things in favor of it are:

Growth of sweet clover during the dry season of 1913. Seeded in dats in the spring.

true; it grows more luxuriantly, producing more tops, roots and seed than any other of our biennial clovers, and apparently under more adverse conditions; it is one of the best nitrogen gatherers and subsoilers; it is the greatest seed producer of all clovers, and in a sweet soil will resist drouth better than any other of these clovers.

The primary need of grain farmers is a crop that will add large amounts of nitrogenous matter and put the soil in good physical condition and at the same time give a crop that may be utilized to good advantage for pasture, forage and seed. Sweet think I am safe in saying that no other biennial clover will produce as much material that may be used for soil improvement as the white sweet clover.

Two of the most serious objections to the use of red clover for soil improvement are the cost of seed and the uncertainty of getting a stand. Sweet clover is a great seed producer, yielding from 5 to 10 bushels per acre and sells at from $8 to $12 per bushel of hulled seed. If sweet clover should begin to grow to any extent the price will be reduced to from $4 to $6 per bushel within a few years. This will place it within the reach of every farmer. Tenants can then afford to buy it. Again, there seems to be much more certainty of getting a catch of sweet clover than of red. The past season with its excessive drouth in central and southern Illinois has been an excellent test. On the soil physics experiment field at Vienna, Johnson county, on the unglaciated area, three wheat plots were seeded to red clover and one to sweet clover last

BUYING COAL FOR HOME PRESENTS PROBLEMS

AVERAGE CONSUMER HAS LITTLE CONCEPTION OF DIFFERENT VALUES.

Large Percent of Fuel Is Wasted Up the Chimney—Water as Coal Constituent Comes High—Burning Conditions Rather Than Price Set the Real Costs.

(By Prof. S. W. Parr, University of Illinois).

All coals are alike in that they are black, more or less dirty, will burn, and weigh 2,000 pounds to the short ton. This is about as far as we can go in formulating a general statement concerning this all important commodity, and this is about the sum total of information which is ordinarily available to the average coal user. There is not much in it which is helpful when it comes to the matter of selecting a winter's supply of fuel. Some of my neighbors seem to have further information which they express along towards spring by saying that they are sure that their ash pile at the end of the winter is larger than their pile was at the beginning. But information of this sort is not a very scientific basis and can hardly be made available for general purposes. In West Virginia coal for example, at $6.00 per ton, worth more than Illinois coal at $4.00 a ton? This is a question which is often asked and which is not altogether easy to answer. Very much depends upon the adaptability of a coal for a specific purpose, or perhaps at would be more to the point to say very much depends upon the adaptability of the appliances for burning coal. That is to say, one coal may give a much better efficiency in one type of equipment than another coal, though each may have substantially the same quantity of heat to dispose of.

In all household appliances the most difficult element to make use of is the volatile matter of the bituminous coals which we are obliged to use. If there is any question on this point (watch the chimney top of any house where the furnace has been recently replenished. A very large percent of fuel is trying to get away without burning. Indeed, the average domestic appliance could hardly be better devised for the particular purpose of driving off this volatile matter and losing it completely so far as deriving any efficiency or heat effect from it is concerned. Approximately one-half of the combustible material in Illinois coals is volatile. More than this, a pound of this volatile matter contains more heat units than a pound of the non-volatile combustible, and so in the aggregate household waste in this connection is something enormous. The point of advantage, therefore, in bituminous coals have a tendency to coke in the firebox and burn in the place where the heat will be of some use.

Water in Coal Costly.

But a more important feature of the case in comparing coals is a consideration of the amount of non-burnable substance which we buy along with the coal. If one were to take a table of analytical values for bituminous coal and were to run down the column indicating the percentage of moisture you would be surprised perhaps to find that this ingredient carried all the way from 3 to 18 per cent. Now water when it is a constituent of coal comes rather high and it is well worth taking into consideration. There is another peculiarity about this constituent and that is the coals with a low water content are somewhat more dense and have the volatile matter as a rule in a somewhat lower proportion. They may be no better for the purpose of raising steam and indeed because of their free burning qualities, may be better for that purpose, but in the average domestic appliance it may be said as a general proposition that the lower the moisture factor the better the coal for that particular application.

Sulphur Undesirable.

Perhaps the next item to be considered is the sulphur content. It is not unusual for it to run as high as 4, 5 and even 6 percent. Now this combination with iron makes a percentage of the total coal which is substantially double that of the factor as given for sulphur. This combination not only supplants a large part of what we would prefer to have combustible material but it is the direct cause for the formation of clinker. If not too far away from coals that have one or two percent of sulphur we would prefer them for household use. For the above reasons there has grown up the practice of washing coals which reduces the quantity of non-combustible material.

Figures on Ash.

The ash in Illinois coals, an item which might be considered of first importance, does not include such wide relative differences as the two constituents already mentioned, that is in the lump or screened grades. It is different in fine stuff or screenings in which the ash constituent is always high. It may be surprising but it nevertheless is a fact that a table of analytical results shows that almost without exception low sulphur and low moisture are accompanied by low ash. Now these are the points which I think are to be considered when we have in mind the limitations of our domestic appliances for burning coal. These features may accompany coals which are so far removed from our particular market that other coals without these advantages in a marked degree may cost sufficiently less to make up for some of the advantages of the coals from a distance, but this is a matter that each individual must determine. Again, it must be remembered that careful preparation of many coals which are normally high in some of these objectionable constituents may bring them substantially into the zone of the higher grade coals. Of course, in a discussion of this sort only general principles can be given and the idiosyncrasies of the particular apparatus and sometimes also of the boys who operate the furnace must be taken into consideration.

In any event it must be obvious that there is an inviting field for improvement in methods of fuel preparation and fuel burning, the importance of which can hardly be overestimated.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

Care of Farm Machinery.

Mr. J. A. Farra, assistant professor of farm mechanics, Kentucky agricultural college, says that "The first step in the proper care of farm machinery is to keep it in proper adjustment. As a rule new machinery is in fair adjustment and needs little attention in this respect, but it is often sticky and otherwise unsatisfactory in its action on account of the manner in which it was painted at the factory. By cleaning out the oil holes and applying a few drops of kerosene, this difficulty may usually be overcome. It is wise to run new machinery 'light'; that is, with its moving parts in action but without a load of any sort, until it is well limbered up. This will put the machine in running order without undue strain and gives an opportunity for adjustment if it should be found necessary.

Machines which have been in use some time should be put in proper adjustment when they receive their periodical over-haulings, and should be given careful attention in this respect during the entire time they are in operation. Cleanliness is as important with farm machinery as with any other class of machinery. Dirt and poor service seem to go hand in hand, and dirty farm machinery cannot be expected to give its full efficiency because dirt upon metals absorbs moisture, which attacks the metal and in time seriously injures it. Also, dirt in the bearings even in small quantities, quickly destroys them by grinding and cutting, and in large quantities may even choke the action of moving parts.

That part of the farm equipment which is made wholly or partially of wood will require especial attention in the way of painting, since wood absorbs moisture readily and rots rapidly. It is a well known fact among country blacksmiths that those farmers who keep their wagons well painted have occasion to have them repaired less frequently than those who neglect to give them this attention. Especially is it desirable to give the wagon felloes a thorough soaking in oil. Wheels so treated are not apt to require the customary cutting in dry seasons, because there will be little expansion and contraction of the wood with the varying moisture conditions of different seasons.

Question of the Sheep Market.

Professor Coffey, head of the sheep division of the University of Illinois, states: Conditions point to a shortage of lambs in this country within the near future. In the west many sheepmen in need of money have not retained their ewe lambs, because they sell at so much per hundred weight more than ewes would bring. Consequently, these men have sold old ewes on their hands which must be closed soon, and they have nothing to take their place. In the central and eastern part of our country there has been a strong tendency among farmers to close out their flocks of sheep. There has been much evidence of this on the Chicago market during the past season. Many native ewes have reached that market for sale and few have been gathered up and shipped to the country for breeding purposes. Kentucky and Tennessee have for a number of years purchased a great many native ewes for the purpose of raising spring lambs, but during the past season there has been very little demand from these states for breeding ewes.

It is thought that mutton and lamb will be imported from Australia, New Zealand and South America. However, those who have studied conditions believe that foreign frozen mutton will meet with slow sale in American markets. The American people are consumers of lamb, but they have not learned to eat mutton to any great extent. Moreover the frozen mutton is dry because of the freezing and hence not so palatable as our own fresh product. It is said that the English demand for lamb is sufficient to take care of the available supply at a higher price than can be secured in America. Therefore it appears that there will be a very small supply to meet the demand for lamb. Those who are retaining their flocks will more than likely enjoy a very strong demand for their lambs within the next two years.

TREE GROWTH DEPENDS GREATLY ON PRUNING

CAN CHANGE CHARACTER AND QUANTITY OF FRUIT.

Maintenance of Symmetry Means a Well Balanced Tree—Even Distribution of Fruit Always Brings the Best Results—Ideal Is Necessary if Best Results are Secured.

(By C. S. Crandall, Horticultural Department, University of Ill.)

Pruning is advocated as a means of improving the character and increasing the quantity of fruit, and of prolonging the period of profitable production of the trees. Left to themselves trees produce a superabundance of branches, and when they reach maturity, tend to produce an excessive number of fruits. These fruits are small and of little value, but they contain seeds, and that is all that nature requires. Nature makes provision for perpetuating the species and is not concerned regarding the longevity of the parent trees. Nature's standard of perfection in fruits is seed production; our standard demands large size, attractive appearance and freedom from blemish.

Our standard is artificial. It is possible to approximate this standard only by curbing the natural tendencies of trees; by confining wood-production within the limits necessary for maintenance of vigor, and keeping fruit production well within the capacity of each individual tree. Trees are plastic things; they can be made to assume any desired form and bear fruit that meets our requirements. It is simply a matter of appreciating and giving attention to their needs.

Maintaining Symmetry.

A principle of first importance in pruning is the maintenance of symmetry; not alone for the sake of appearance, but because well balanced trees live longer and produce a greater aggregate of fruit than do the one-sided, unsymmetrical trees.

Another equally important principle aims at securing an even distribution of fruit over the tree. It is a reasonable assumption that trees can more safely carry large loads of fruit if the weight is distributed all over the tree than if the same weight of fruit is concentrated on the extremities of branches.

Pruning Must Be Uniform.

Crops thus borne on outer branches are certain to break some or many of these branches and permanently injure the trees. There are many orchards in Illinois that have suffered in this way and many more that will be similarly injured when next called upon to bear a heavy crop. This condition, which forces fruit production to the ends of the branches, is the natural result of a method of pruning which is to often practiced. I refer to the practice of confining the pruning to the lower, easily accessible, parts of the trees. Lower branches are removed, limbs serving as the foundation for the crown are denuded of lateral branches as high as can be conveniently reached, and there the work stops. This procedure reduces the pushing of innumerable buds on the remaining outer branches until the tree presents an almost impenetrable wall of foliage surrounding a bare interior. There is no further growth of interior branches, nor can any be expected, because light is excluded.

Not only is this condition unfortunate as regards the enforced production of fruit at the extremities of the branches, but the denuded interior, with its subdued light and high humidity, affords safe harbor for insects and ideal conditions for the development of fungi.

Thick tops and other departures from good form result, either from the mistaken following of fundamental wrong practice in pruning, or from neglect; more frequently the latter. The ill effects of neglected or bad pruning are most apparent in the orchards of those who consider the orchard as secondary to the other farming or business interests. But often the same difficulties in less aggravated form, are seen in the orchards of men whose first or only interest is fruit growing. Here the difficulty lies, usually in the extent of the operations. The owner of a few trees can keep them in ideal form with little effort, but the man who undertakes management of thousands of trees, although using good judgment and making liberal expenditures, must often content himself with only an approximation of the form and condition he regards as ideal.

Idea Is Important.

In pruning it is essential that an ideal of form be conceived and kept in mind. Attainment of the ideal depends upon the ability to quickly determine the needs of individual trees. No two trees are alike; each presents its own problems. Hence quick-acting judgment must be relied upon rather than specific rules. Practice is essential to the development of quick perception as it is to the requirement of dexterity in manual operations.

With the acquirement of skill in quick solution of problems presented, pruning becomes less laborious, and, perhaps, becomes less always be one of the essentials of good orchard practice, the fruit grower should make an effort to develop such degree of skill as will give him confidence in directing others and make practice of the art a pleasure rather than a burden.

Three Birthdays a Year.
There is apparently plenty of fun for the child in Sweden in the matter of birthdays, but the parent can hardly be expected to feel the same, for the children there do not confine themselves
to one birthday, but they must have three. Of course the first one is the real birthday, and the other two are the real birthdays of the Swedish boy or girl bears. Pay every day in the year of the Swedish calendar has its own separate name, besides the weekly names which other nations have.
Sometimes if the parent gives the child
a second name or a first one that can not be found in the calendar, the child
loses out on one birthday. And considerable protest must follow, too, when the child becomes old enough to realize what he is missing. In the German calendar every day has a name also,
but the observance of these days is not at all common in the latter country.

English Harvest Feasts.
The feasts that now take place at the close of the harvest season in England are small affairs compared with the old fashioned harvest suppers held formerly. In some of the northern counties the farmers would give churns of cream, and it was served out in cups to the laborers. Nowadays a glass of ale or cider is the substitute
for the old time feast. In some parts of the north of Ireland the ancient custom still lingers as "the churn supper".
A very old custom is the baking of a large cake by the farmer's wife. This is cut up and served out to every one,
including children, accompanying the "horkey cart" into the farmyard. The Distinctive Dress in England.

At Coutts' bank the clerical assistants must all wear frock coats, and no one in the employment of the bank
is allowed to go about with his trousers turned up. At Hoare's bank it is the custom of all those employed to wear
white ties. Members of the legal profession observe the etiquette of their calling by abstaining from the wearing of light or fancy colored clothes and always wear silk hats. The headies of some Presbyterian churches in England wear dress suits instead of the Anglican cassock. Some brewers' workmen and draymen wear scarlet knitted wool nightcaps. In fact, nearly every trade and profession has its own conventions and unwritten laws
concerning the dress of its members.

WORLD'S LATEST FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

STONE OF STOCK MARKET SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

MARKET SHOWS BETTER RECUP-ERATIVE POWER.

Speculation Dwindles as Day Advances But There Are No Signs of General Weakness, Despite Heaviness in Individual Cases.

New York, Nov. 21.—There was little to distinguish today's stock
market from the sleepy sessions
which have preceded it this week although the tone was better. At the outside there was a small decline,
owing presumably to the influence of the dragging market for American stocks in London and the sharp
break in copper metal prices abroad.
The market showed greater recuper-
ative power than it did yesterday,
however, and the opening losses were soon made up, some of the leaders
rising well above the previous close.
Speculation dwindled as the day advanced and prices eased off slightly from the high point but there were no signs of general weakness, despite marked heaviness in individual cases. The firmer tone of the market was due chiefly to the strong technical position which induced shorts to cover whenever they were able to produce stocks at recessions.

A cash gain for the banks on the week was predicted, despite shipment of $2,500,000 to Canada, making the week's shipments to the Dominion $3,500,000.

Further shipments across the border is expected on account of the extensive movement of Canadian grain to export. Much of the grain is going forward through American points
and selling of grain bills here places
large balances to the credit of the Canadian banks.

According to Dr. Pearl of the Maine agricultural experiment station. Such a law of heredity can only be determined by careful investigation and analysis, and in this manner only we learn with what degree of assurance we can repeat a profitable experience or avoid the unprofitable one.

Superstition Sometimes Rules.
Heredity has been much discussed in writing and speech. Frequently the subject has been abused by undue speculation, and unfounded superstition. It would be highly important to the practical breeder and scientist to know how an animal or plant obtained its characters and how these would be transmitted. To discover laws regarding living organism is not an easy matter, for valid conclusions are only reached by repeated experiments. The complexity of living organisms renders it difficult to repeat exactly a given set of conditions. Hence it is not surprising that a discovery of any laws in heredity should be delayed until very recent years.

The best clue to a satisfactory and successful interpretation was given by the experiments of an Austrian monk, Gregor Mendel. He showed that under certain conditions in crosses between varieties of garden peas, one could predict the appearance of a character in the offspring; and also when the offspring were inbred, or bred back to either parent. For eight years he had experimented with pedigreed cultures, kept careful statistics and finally he discovered a law. Instead of publishing volumes he reported his case in a short, clear communication. One such classic as this, however, is worth volumes of speculation. Mendel's success was due to the fact that his materials and methods were well chosen. Other investigators had tried to follow too many characters at one time, or characters with too much fluctuation. The early work of those who first sought to corroborate Mendel's laws also dealt with simple characters. This law regards as individual animal or plant as a sum total of characters, and these characters are transmitted as distinct units inhered.

Two Forms of Inheritance.
There have been brought to light by such experiments two peculiar forms of inheritance. In one the male transmits a character to both sons and daughters, while the female transmits it only to her sons. In the other the male transmits a character only to his daughters, while the female transmits to both her sons and daughters. Such a complex was only straightened out and logically explained by the hypothesis which Mendel formulated. In fact one can predict the exact reappearance or non-appearance of many a character. Whether a dairy bull transmits his latent qualities partly or wholly according to the first or second peculiar form of sex-linked or "criss cross" inheritance can only be solved by the same sort of careful experimentation.

DON'T TRUST CALOMEL

THOUSANDS EXPERIENCE BAD AFTER EFFECTS FROM THIS DANGEROUS DRUG.

A Safe Vegetable Substitute is Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Ohio, has discovered a laxative and liver toner in a combination of vegetable materials mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers. His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him, years ago, towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he has been for several years in possession of the long-sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablet.

The results of 17 years' experience and practice are embodied in the marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. And their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

There is no necessity when you take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, by following them up with nasty, sickening, griping salts, or castor oil, as you do after taking calomel. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio.

Remedy as Bad as the Disease.

"On the seventh of February I contracted a severe cold followed by a cough and final loss of voice. I tried many remedies none of which did me any good. I then went to my family doctor and he swabbed my throat five or six times with some horrible stuff. I think it was beneficial but the remedy was as bad as the disease. At last the thought struck me—why not try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I did so and this morning my voice is fairly good and is gradually growing better," writes H. C. Clay, publisher of The Reporter, Rapid City, Manitoba. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

MOTHER! THE CHILD

IS COSTIVE, BILIOUS

Don't hesitate! A laxative is necessary if tongue is coated, breath bad or stomach sour.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once—a teaspoonful today often saves a sick child tomorrow.

If your little one is out-of-sorts half sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look! Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mother can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!—Adv.

CARNIVAL AT LAFAYETTE SCHOOL PROVES MOST SUCCESSFUL

Pupils Realize Next Sum For Manual Training Room Fund—Vaudeville Number a Feature.

The Lafayette, or second ward school building was the scene of boisterous merriment last evening on the occasion of the long talked of carnival for the benefit of the manual training room fund. Great preparations had been made for the event and the success was certainly all that could be desired. Teachers and pupils had wrought hard to make the affair what it was and they were well rewarded for their efforts.

There was some delay and confusion owing to the fact that the fuse of the electric light system in the building burned out at an untimely hour but it was finally rectified and all went well. As a great part of the pupils in the building had a part it is not practicable to give the names of all the performers but it may truthfully be said that they did their parts admirably while the costumes and make-ups were splendid. Each performer seemed to take in the nature of the part assigned and then entered into it with zeal and fidelity with the natural result, success.

The main attractions were in the second story and the numbers of the vaudeville were: Tom Thumb Company, Maude Powell, violinist; Jubilee Singers, Master Session Mendelsson, Gold Dust Twins, Lillian Mortimer Stock Company, Mutt and Jeff, Alkali Ike, Padarewski, Sousa's German Band, Trail of the Lonesome Pine.

Of course it will be understood that all were burlesque and so cleverly was the whole done and so apt were the performers and so effective their costumes and makeups that the audience was frequently convulsed with laughter.

On the first floor were booths for various purposes: candy and popcorn market, fish pond, world's wonders, fortune telling booth. Then at the last came an auction of things made and for sale. This part was indebted to the veteran Jerry Cox for services as auctioneer and a lot of things changed hands.

It was impossible last evening to tell just how they came out but at the door nearly $25.00 was taken in while the receipts at the other places were liberal so that all in all a goodly sum has been added to the manual training room fund and patrons had a grand time.

Interment will be made in Union cemetery.

Mrs. Dyer, who was about 73 years of age, was the widow of William Dyer, who passed away in 1880. Until six years ago she resided on the farm just northeast of Pisgah, moving to Nebraska at that time and has since made her home with her son. She is survived by the following children: William, Frank, Henry, George and Edward, all residing in Nebraska, and one daughter, Mrs. Julius Ehrlich of Joy Prairie. She was a member of the Union Baptist church at Pisgah and was a woman who was highly respected by a wide circle of friends.

ILLINOIS MEETS SHURTLEFF TODAY

GAME WILL BE PLAYED IN ENEMY'S COUNTRY.

Coach Harmon is Anticipating Hard Struggle With Eleven From South Part of State—Team Will Return This Evening.

Coach Harmon is expecting nothing but a hard fought game this afternoon on the Alton field when he sends his eleven men against the Shurtleff College squad. The team will leave this morning at 6 o'clock and will return this evening at 9:15. Just what Shurtleff's bunch has up their sleeve is hard to tell, but as a rule the Alton eleven has always been Illinois' most worthy opponents.

Coach Harmon has left no stone unturned to get his men in the pink of condition and will take no chances in the enemy's country. Alton has a strong player in Snodgrass, a tackler and thus far this year he has been their great ground gainer. Then they have Moore, a good man at full. It will be remembered last year, that Moore was injured on Illinois gridiron and had to be carried from the field. Sutton, half back is another ground gainer for Shurtleff. The first game Shurtleff played this year was against St. Louis University and the U trimmed them 6 to 0. Lincoln beat them 9 to 6 and Millikin won from them 14 to 3. Illinois standing among the minor colleges of the state depends considerably upon this game and the one with Williams and Vascetti on Thanksgiving day, so the varsity lads intend to work hard.

The following will be the line up: Pierce, rt; Frisbie, rt; Darragh, rc; Atchison, c; Russell, lg; Mitchell, lt; McLaughlin, lc; Stewart, or; Gray, qb; Spruit, lb; Wilson, rrb; Alfred, fb. The subs will be Mavey, C. Lukeman, E. Lukeman.

The officials will be, Edmunds (St. Louis U.) referee, Lower (St. L. U.) umpire; Jackson, (Western Military) headlines-man.

MURDER MAY HAVE BEEN

COMMITTED IN FREIGHT CAR

Evidences of Foul Play Are Found When Car Load of Lumber is Unloaded at Aurora.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Indications that a murder may have been committed were discovered at Aurora today when a carload of lumber was being unloaded. Workmen found a woman's bloodstained undershirt, a school reader, with the inscription "Elsie Helba Day, Springfield, Oge." and an empty revolver. Blood was spattered about the car. The school book, a Huss' German reader, bore the name of Dr. H. A. Day, Colville, Wash.

The car was shipped from South Bend, Wash., Sept. 25, by the South Bend Mills and Transportation company. It passed through Springfield, Ore., a day or so later.

Aurora police telegraphed to chief of police of Colville, Wash., and Springfield, Ore., but no reply has been received.

Other names in the book, apparently friends of the owner were: "Charlie Mantz, Colie, Wash., Alfred Lover, Des Moines, Iowa; Alfred Love, Spokane, Wash., Mrs. A. C. Day, Portland, Ore., and Mrs. D. H. Smith of Unionville, Iowa."

Thinks School Teacher Victim.

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 21.—Elsie Day of Springfield, Ore., thought to be the victim of box car murder, is alive in Des Moines. She thinks the murdered girl is Alice McCarnes, a school teacher of Springfield with whom she was intimately acquainted. Elsie Day is here visiting her brother, Alfred Love.

MATRIMONIAL

Charlesworth-Vallery.

Joseph E. Charlesworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Charlesworth, Sr., and Miss Alice Vallery, the daughter of Mrs. Hattie Vallery, both of Arenzville were married Thursday afternoon by Judge E. P. Brockhouse. The young people are favorably known and they expect to reside on a farm.

The Ladies' Aid society of Westminster church will hold a Thanksgiving market Saturday in Johnson, Hackett & Guthrie's window.

SMALL POX IN JOLIET.

Joliet, Ills., Nov. 21.—Joliet is experiencing the worst epidemic of small pox in history. Seventeen new cases were reported today. Dr. E. C. Crawford of the state board of health, reported today that he personally had seen 50 cases of genuine smallpox and said the number would increase rapidly unless drastic action is immediately taken.

Two schools were ordered closed and citizens have been warned to prepare for compulsory vaccination.

JOSEPH P. WARNER PASSES AWAY

AT HIS RESIDENCE FRIDAY NOON

Had Suffered Three Paralytic Strokes—Funeral Will Probably Be Held Tuesday.

Following an illness of several months, Joseph P. Warner, a veteran locomotive engineer and highly respected citizen of Jacksonville, passed away at his home, 928 Ashland avenue, Friday at noon. The deceased was stricken with paralysis some time ago but recovered sufficiently to go about town, but a short time ago he suffered a second stroke, which affected his entire right side, and had been confined to his bed since that time. Thursday night he was stricken a third time and death relieved him of his suffering Friday.

Born in Springfield, Ohio, June 25, 1853, Joseph Parsons Warner spent his boyhood and received his education at Xenia, Ohio. At the age of 19 he entered railroad work taking up engineering and had been continually employed in that work until his recent illness. He was one of the oldest engineers in point of service in the state and during the earlier years of his life was in the employ of the Wabash and Union Pacific roads. Thirty years ago the first of last April Mr. Warner entered the employ of the Jacksonville Southeastern Railway company, now the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis Railway company. After moving to Jacksonville twenty-four years ago last June Mr. Warner took the passenger run between Jacksonville and Havana.

As an engineer Mr. Warner was considered a most efficient and trustworthy man. During his long term of service he won a large number of friends, not only in Jacksonville but also in the many different towns through which his train passed twice a day. Of a kind and genial nature Mr. Warner easily made friends, and more than that he kept his many friendships through his honesty, integrity and other manly traits. He was indeed a man of admirable character and his going is a loss to Jacksonville.

Mr. Warner came to Illinois, settling first in Springfield, in 1868 and October 19, 1878 was married to Miss Emelia Beck, who survives him. Mr. and Mrs. Warner were the parents of two children: Andrew Joseph who died in infancy and Carl Edward, who is superintendent of manual training department of the public schools of Battle, Mont. Besides his wife and one son Mr. Warner is survived by one brother, Jack Warner of Australia and three sisters, Mrs. Mary T. Swinney of Kanakee, Mrs. Sarah Perry of New York Mills, Minn., and Mrs. Anna Bell Killius of Spokane.

Mr. Warner was a member of Hospitalier Commandery No. 31, Knights Templar, Jacksonville Chapter No. 3, Royal Arch Masons; Jacksonville lodge No. 570, A. F. & A. Masons; Wilbur Chapter No. 358, Order of Eastern Star; Unit lodge No. 4, I. O. O. F.; Ridgely Encampment No. 9, and Caritas Rebekah lodge No. 625. He took an active interest in the fraternities of which he was a member and when his health and his railroad duties would permit, was a regular attendant at the meetings.

Funeral services will probably be held Tuesday of next week and interment will be made in Oak Ridge cemetery in Springfield. Arrangements will be completed when the son, Carl, arrives in the city next Monday from Montana.

DAIRYMEN MAY ORGANIZE.
A meeting of dairymen and farmers producing dairy products will be held this afternoon at 2:30 in the jury room of the court house with the view of forming an organization to advance the dairy interests of the community. Owing to the fact that Morgan county is becoming more and more a dairy section a number of progressive producers of milk and cream have advocated the forming of such an organization in order to make the industry in Morgan county steadily progressive.

RELIABLES ARE DEFEATED.
The Christian Church Reliabilities basketball team went to Bluffs Friday evening where they were defeated by the Bluffs team by a score of 32 to 18. Wood and McDavis made the baskets for the Jacksonville team which was composed of: Chipchase and Wood, forwards; McDavis, center; Johnson and Smith, guards. Davis acted as referee.
